ABOUT

Gina D'Soto is a rising voice in contemporary Latin jazz, redefining Cuban music with a fresh, global perspective. Based in New York, she blends the harmonic richness of jazz with the pulse of R&B, pop, and Cuban traditions, creating a sound that is both soulful and innovative. Her bilingual storytelling and improvisational spirit celebrate cultural diversity, bridging her heritage with modern influences to craft music that feels timeless yet forward-looking.

Her artistry has been featured by NPR Live Sessions, Billboard Argentina, and Remezcla, earning her recognition as one of the most exciting new artists of her generation. She has also appeared on the GRAMMY ballot and collaborated with renowned musicians including Ana Tijoux, Yendry, Danay Suárez, and Grammy-winner Arturo O'Farrill. Through her digital releases and dynamic live performances, Gina captivates audiences with vulnerability, rhythmic fire, and a stage presence that embodies both tradition and innovation.

*... and we laughed
... and we cried*

...and we laughed ...and we cried is Gina D'Soto's debut EP—a raw and intimate soundtrack of love, loss, and rebirth. Through bilingual storytelling and a voice that moves seamlessly from tender vulnerability to fiery strength, Gina invites listeners into a world where jazz-rooted soul and Cuban spirit collide. More than a collection of songs, it's an emotional journey meant to be felt as much as heard.

"Gina D'Soto is a musical sensation who has captured the essence of jazz, soul and Cuban traditions in her enchanting soundscapes."
